It is only a question of money.

"How much?" we asked, and he said "$25,000." We demanded that he should say the "old man" had paid that figure, but he would not say it. He said he would not say it until he had seen the money. He said he would not say it until he had seen the money. He said he would not say it until he had seen the money.

Means Finally Brought In.

"Kotner said he wanted to talk with Means himself and that he would not say it until he had seen the money. He said he would not say it until he had seen the money. He said he would not say it until he had seen the money."

Asks Release of $25,000.

"Two or three days later, I was in Kotner's office in Chicago, when a telephone call came from Jarnesko in Washington. He said the 'old man' had paid the $25,000. He said the 'old man' had paid the $25,000. He said the 'old man' had paid the $25,000."

Means "Paid" of Means.

Remember then told of the visit to Feltner at 145 Broadway, and then of the call that evening on Means and Jarnesko, when Means said he would "fix it so they could go back into business."

AWARD $10,000 TO WIDOW OF SLAIN OFFICER

Damage of $10,000 were yesterday awarded by a jury in Judge Walter F. Sullivan's court to the widow of Martin C. Collins, a policeman who was killed by an automobile driven by the defendant today in the case, David R. Groh, 17 West Ohio street, a defendant.

Evidence showed that the policeman was fatally crushed when, after boarding Groh's machine, the latter drove against another car. Groh's car had crashed into a street car and when Collins, who was said to have been intoxicated, attempted to escape, the policeman jumped on the running board to stop him.

Groh was found guilty of manslaughter and served eleven months in the penitentiary on a sentence of from one year to life. While in prison his wife divorced him. Mrs. Collins has four children, Agnes, 15; John, 13; Michael, 8, and Anna, 5.

Means gave it to Kotner. We all went to Feltner's office. Spilberg, Edward J. McCroskey, and William Chornoff, Feltner's partners, received Feltner was not there. Means said: "Alfred, have you got the money?" "Kotner said: 'Yes, we are a little short, but it is all we can raise now.'"

U. S. DEMANDS CHICAGO ADOPT METER SYSTEM

That Is Solution for Lake Level Crisis.

Chicago's future health rests in the hands of the city council. No relief from Washington in the city's sewage crisis can be expected unless the city government will take immediate steps to curb its water consumption by adoption of a system of metering.

Such was the ultimatum served on Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer of the sanitary district, by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, United States district judge, in the case of the Chicago area, who returned from Washington yesterday.

Under the Supreme court's ruling the flow of water through the drainage canal must be reduced from 10,000 cubic feet per second to 4,187 cubic feet within sixty days. The war department is given authority by the decision to issue a permit allowing the sanitary district to withdraw as much water as is needed. It is understood that the city council must act on a program of water metering before the sixty day period has elapsed.

Senate Body Hints Chicago Will Get 10,000 Feet of Water

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—That the senate later to the senate will advocate a water diversion of 10,000 cubic feet per second at Chicago, was made apparent today when the committee resumed the taking of testimony from Representatives of various shipping interests in the lake region.

"A majority of the committee," said a senior Brookline, Mass., resident, told Harvey D. Gould, counsel for the Lake Carriers' association, "feel that a diversion of 10,000 feet is not necessary for sewage disposal at Chicago but is necessary to increase the depth of the Illinois river from three to four feet."

While the hearing was in progress Senator McKinley (Rep., Ill.) made public a letter from Secretary of War Weeks assuring him that no action will be taken by the government which will prove detrimental to the health of Chicago.

My Dear Senator: Referring to your personal visit to me relating to the Chicago drainage canal and the action which the government may take to carry out the decision of the Supreme court, no action will be taken until this session of congress has an opportunity to enact legislation. No action will be taken at any time which will jeopardize the health of the city of Chicago.

COAST GUARDS FIGHT WAY TO 40 ON SUBMARINE

Crew, Stranded in High Seas, Reported Safe.

Chatham, Mass., Jan. 13.—The stranded United States submarine S-19 was boarded shortly before 9 o'clock tonight by Capt. Abbott H. Walker and his crew from the Naugatuck coast guard station.

They reported that the forty men on the submarine were comfortable and could pass the night there in safety.

Settles Into Land.

The vessel had settled some feet into the sand of the outer bar to Orleans harbor when she stuck early this morning. Her plates have held firm, however, and with the slowly diminishing surf it is believed her condition will not change before morning.

The S-19 is a first line submarine, built in 1921 at a cost of $4,800,000, and carrying thirty-five men and five officers under the command of Lieut. C. F. Martin. The submarine left after an overhauling.

FEDERAL JUDGE ENGLISH UNDER FIRE; ASK QUIZ

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Investigation of the conduct of United States District Judge George W. English and Charles B. Thomas, referee in bankruptcy, both in the eastern district of Illinois, is proposed in a resolution introduced in the house today by Representative Hawes (Dem., Mo.).

Under terms of the resolution the investigation would be conducted by the house judiciary committee. It is declared in the resolution that charges have appeared against Judge English and Mr. Thomas in the St. Louis Post Dispatch and that because of their seriousness an investigation is warranted.

The charges include the following: Tyrannical and unwarranted disbarment of attorneys by Judge English. Deposit of funds and assets controlled by the court in designated banks in which the judge and referee were stockholders.

JEALOUS RAJAH NIPS LOVE OF NAUTICAL

Young Suitor Is Dancer Disfigured

ROMNEY, Jan. 13.—(Special.)—The most beautiful native Indian and a wealthy woman, both of whom were well known in the community, were the victims of a tragedy which occurred last night in the city of Bombay.

Handsome Bombay merchant, Rajah, ruler over 10,000 subjects, and the possessor of a fortune worth in addition to his of $4,000,000 a year.

Monday night the love of Rajah and the dancer, who was disfigured under the gaze of an assassin, was the cause of a tragedy.

JEALOUS RAJAH NIPS LOVE IDYL OF NAUTCH GIRL

Young Suitor Is Dead;
Dancer Disfigured.

BOMBAY, Jan. 13. (United News.)—The most beautiful nautch dancer in India is disfigured and seriously wounded, her wealthy but jealous lover is dead and there is a generally expressed opinion that the maharajah of Indore, who used to thrill the nautch dancers with his attentions, has had his revenge.

Mumtaz is the girl's name. Her murdered lover was Abdul Kadir Indore. Bailla, a young, beautiful Bombay dancer, is an important potentate of the state, ruler over 10,000 square miles, and has a net worth of more than 1,000,000 rupees. In addition to his state income of $4,000,000 a year.

Monday night the love of Mumtaz and Bailla ended under the blows of a dagger. Tuesday morning Bailla died from the wounds inflicted on the rufians, from whom he tried to protect the dancer.

All India Ecstacy.

India, which accepted the exposure of the first Singh as the famous "Mr. A." of London, is more excited over the fate of Bailla and Mumtaz. Mumtaz has been a member of the household of the maharajah. She had twice visited England with him.

It developed that the starry creature was not so pleased with her swarthy master as he was with her, and last March she was discovered flirting with a member of the maharajah's suite. Detected with her lover, she fled from Indore, capital of the central Indian province over which the maharajah rules.

Their escape was discovered. The maharajah's lover was captured and taken back to Indore, where he was thrown into prison. Mumtaz escaped to Bombay.

Takes Merchant Lover.

Her beauty and her rhythmic dancing in the strains of Indian folk songs attracted Bailla, the young merchant. He made love to her and she went to live at his home.

Meanwhile the girl was being shadowed by her lover's quarrel with the maharajah. She was warned that Mumtaz was in love with her. But she ignored the threats.

Monday night while they were motoring together through Malabar hill, the fashionable quarter of Bombay, a gang of Indians rushed into the road, way and halted their car. They attempted to abduct Mumtaz. Bailla resisted them, and the men turned on him with knives and revolvers. The lovers were terribly wounded.

The screams attracted four British officers who were passing in a motor car, but as the officers rushed to the rescue the thugs fled.

English Officer a Hero.

Lieut. Seagrave of the royal engineers caught a lagging gangster, and, although wounded, grappled with the scoundrel. Seagrave, collapsed during his struggle, but his arms were interlocked with the Indian's. When the other Englishmen came up a moment later they completed the capture. While the officers were taking Mumtaz and Bailla to a hospital in their car another attempt was made to abduct the girl but was repulsed.

Tuesday morning Bailla died. Mumtaz is seriously wounded; her face is gruesomely disfigured.

The police found a large sum of money on Seagrave's person. It is alleged that the attackers were the maharajah's agents. The English language newspapers do not mention his name, but demand that he authorize the arrest and punish the perpetrators of the outrage and discover the organizer of the plot.

HELD ON BAD CHECK CHARGE.

CHARLES F. DROZSKI, RICH MANUFACTURER, TO MARRY WIDOW

Charles F. Drozski, 63 years old, millionaire president of the Central Malheur Castings company, yesterday obtained a license to marry Mrs. Augusta Weyman, 1710 Lunt avenue, Rogers Park. She is 46 years old and is the widow of an old time friend of Drozski's.

Mrs. Weyman last night refused to tell her wedding plans. From friends of the couple it was learned, however, that they expect to marry shortly and probably will take a Mediterranean trip for a honeymoon.

Drozski and Mrs. Weyman have been friends for years. He, too, is a widower. Neither Union League club friends of the manufacturer nor business associates knew of his marriage plans until the license was issued yesterday. Drozski has a large home in River Forest.

DR. W. F. LORENZ IN MEXICAN JAIL AFTER SHIPWRECK

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 13. (Special.)—Dr. W. F. Lorenz, president of the state board of control, is in a jail in Mexico and has appealed to state officials to bring pressure to affect his release.

The imprisonment of Dr. Lorenz was made known here today when Dr. A. S. Loevenhart of the University of Wisconsin medical staff received a telegram from Lorenz.

"Sailing vessel wrecked Jan. 10," it said. "All hands saved. We are now in Mexican jail at Progreso charged with filibuster or something equally absurd. Get in touch with Washington. Notify Col. Hannan."

Gov. John J. Blaine immediately asked the state department at Washington to demand the immediate release of Lorenz and also wired the same demand to President Calles of Mexico and the mayor of Progreso.

Dr. Lorenz, considered one of the leading physicians of the state, took a sea trip for his health. He left Wisconsin about Jan. 1. His message was the first knowledge of his mishap.

JOHN D. C. TOWNE OPPOSES $18,000 ALIMONY CLAIM

Wife contends he has $75,000 income.

Unlike most of the members of the social set, whose divorces usually slide smoothly through the courts, Mr. and Mrs. John Dean Caton Towne have decided it was revealed yesterday, to struggle through a contest for alimony.

Mrs. Towne before her marriage was Jane August Holabird, daughter of the late William Holabird, the architect. She filed a petition, through her attorney, Weymouth Kirkland, asking $18,000 a month, or $216,000 a year, temporary alimony.

Her husband, Mrs. Towne said, has an annual income of $75,000, derived partly from the estate of his grandfather, Judge John Dean Caton, a pioneer Chicagoan. During the time they lived together in Evanston, Mrs. Towne said, at least $25,000 annually was spent in keeping up their home.

Her own income being only $3,192 a year, Mrs. Towne said, she was obliged to borrow to support herself and two children, Laura, 20, and August, 12. Two other sons, John Jr., 18 and William, 16, are in eastern schools, one at Princeton and the other at the Berkshire school in Sheffield, Mass.

Towne replies that he was required to pay $500 a month for the two boys' expenses at school. His income, he said, was only $35,000. He is willing, he declared in an answer to his wife's petition, to pay a reasonable sum for alimony, but declares $11,000 is excessive.

The contest will be heard within a

THREE SOCIETIES JOIN TO HONOR BENJAMIN FRANKLIN

The Old Time Printers' association, for forty years leaders in celebrating Benjamin Franklin's birthday, this year will be joined by the Electric club of Chicago and also the Ben Franklin Society. Seven hundred are expected to attend the meeting in the La Salle Saturday night.

Mayor Dever will talk on "How Benjamin Franklin Would Handle Civic Problems Today." James M. Lynch, president of the International Typographical Union of North America, will speak. Frederick P. Voss will address the audience on Franklin's scientific work.

National observance of Franklin's birthday is being urged by mutual insurance men. J. C. Adorley, president of the Integrity Mutual Casualty company, announced yesterday. He said that because Franklin was not surrounded with military glamour he is not known to today's youth as the starkest patriot he actually was.

short time before Superior Judge Joseph Sabath. Mrs. Towne first filed suit for divorce, but subsequently changed her plea to one for separate maintenance.

LIKED IN BERLIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Wire Service.] (Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—Political circles here are interested by Washington cables that Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton has accepted the ambassadorship to the court of St. James.

German politicians consider Mr. Houghton one of Germany's best friends, all his efforts and accomplishments being toward building up better relations and restoring the former commerce between the two countries.

Mr. Houghton is favored because of his staunch adherence to those principles which the Germans believe kept America from European entanglements until America came forward with the Dawes plan.

ATTORNEY SEEN BY POLICE.

Attorney Lawrence E. Dowd yesterday filed suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Dowd, 5822 Pine Grove avenue, charging she had chanced him with a long, sharp knife.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13. (Special.)—Just what sort of Middle West legislation is really favored by the senate became a puzzle today when that body found itself in the strange position of having approved three of the rival and conflicting measures under consideration.

After having last week approved the Underwood bill in committee of the whole, the senate today first adopted the Jones substitute providing for a commission of three to investigate the entire problem for another year and then approved practically the original Underwood bill.

When the senate adjourned on the day Senator Underwood (Dem., Ala.) had reintroduced his bill with some modifications as a substitute for the Underwood bill. Tomorrow it is regarded as likely that the senate will adopt the Underwood bill in preference to the Jones measure and, for all any one knows, may continue to travel round in a circle.

Last week's action in favor of the Underwood bill, which provides for a commission of three to investigate the entire problem for another year, was regarded as meaning the sidetracking of the Jones bill for government operation and development of water power.

Today's vote in favor of the Jones substitute was made possible by some of the Republicans who favored the Underwood bill last week switching over to the scheme to continue investigations through a commission. The Jones substitute was adopted by a vote of 48 to 23. Senator Norris (Rep., Neb.), Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.), and others of the La Follette group voted for the Jones measure in preference to the Underwood bill.

Norris Bill Passed.

Senator Norris then brought forward his government ownership bill as a substitute for the Jones commission.

Senate Passes 2 Rival Shoals Bills; May Pass 3d Today

INT. STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 13. (Special.)—Several Democrats who have supported the Underwood bill voted for the Norris bill on this roll call, evidently figuring that such action might give them another opportunity to bring forward their own pet measure.

When Senator Underwood offered his bill as a substitute for the Norris bill Senator Norris promptly made a point of order against it on the ground that it should have been introduced prior to the action on his bill. He said that if such a procedure were allowed to continue there would be no end to it. His point of order was overruled and on an appeal of the decision of the chair the ruling was sustained by a vote of 53 to 23.

G. O. P. Regulars Split.

Administration forces, which joined with some of the Democrats last week in substituting the Underwood measure for the Norris bill, were divided today on the Jones substitute, enough of them going over to supporters of the Jones plan to put through the Washington senator's bill, which would have the effect of deferring final congressional action on the disposition of the power and nitrate plants for at least a year.

Then when Senator Norris got his amended measure before the senate again enough of the Underwood forces went over to the Norris group to substitute the Nebraska senator's measure for the Jones bill.

In the ensuing debate there were indications that enough of the administration forces would again join with supporters of the Underwood bill to substitute that for the Norris plan. Some leaders predicted privately that if the Jones substitute then were offered it would be rejected, declaring that otherwise the senate might find it extremely difficult to emerge from the circle around which it revolved today.

Not only is it likely that the Underwood substitute will be approved tomorrow, but it is quite possible that the senate will go one step farther and again approve the Jones substitute.

PLACARDS WILL WARN AGAINST RAW OYSTERS

Placards warning restaurants from offering, and the public from eating, raw oysters will be posted in every restaurant, cafe, and hotel dining room in the city today by health inspectors under Commissioner Bunde's plan.

Placing of the placards is only one of several drastic steps ordered by State Director of Health Isaac N. Rawlings to stem the typhoid fever epidemic now prevalent in several sections of the state in Chicago, 112 cases are recorded and practically all of the sufferers trace their illness to raw oysters.

RICH OKLAHOMAN KILLS ANOTHER WITH SHOTGUN

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 13.—E. S. Hutchison, wealthy lumberman, was shot and instantly killed tonight by Charles E. Purdy, an oil company manager.

Hutchison was sitting in an auto in front of the postoffice when Purdy walked up, shoved a shotgun through the door of the car, and pulled the trigger. Two women who were sitting in the rear seat of the car fled. Neither of them was identified.

Attorneys for Purdy said that the shooting was the climax to family troubles. Purdy and his wife were divorced recently and last week his son, Charles E. Jr., was kidnapped.

WORLD GIRDERS FLY OVER ANCIENT BATTLE GROUNDS

Look Down Where Alexander Won Big Victory.

BY LOWELL THOMAS.
(Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune Newspapers Syndicate, Inc.)
SECTION LIII.

"On the morning of July 10 we motored from the Syrian hotel to the French aerodrome beyond the north wall of Saladin's city of Aleppo. It was just at dawn and this picturesque metropolis of two hundred thousand people which lies midway between the orient and occident was just coming to life. Camels were burling and complaining as their drivers loaded them. Merchants were on their way to the bazaar, and nearly every native we passed sat astride a diminutive donkey. It looked like a scene from an oriental comic opera.

"Many of the natives who passed us were awfully bulky fellows with fierce, upturned mustaches. To make the picture all the more incongruous and full of color each wore a tall red fez like the Shriners wear at home. To protect his portly body he wore a long Mother Hubbard robe of many colors, such as Joseph must have had on the day his brothers threw him into the well. On his feet were red slippers with upturned toes dangling in the dust.

"To see one of these pompous bumbos of Aleppo joggling along on his little Syrian ass was quite enough to put all of us in a good humor for the day," remarked Leigh Wade.

Off to Early Start.
"Just at 4 o'clock, as the sun came up over the rim of the desert, we took off for our six hundred mile flight across Asia Minor. It was a glorious sparkling desert morning with perfect visibility. And as we circled around before leaving the ancient capital of the Barcenas, I couldn't help but think of all the historic lands that lay spread out around us.

"Ever since we reached southern Asia it has seemed that each day has brought us to a region steeped in history and tradition. When we arrived at Baidat it seemed as though we had reached the climax. But here at Aleppo, as our world travelers swept at the rate of a hundred miles an hour toward the Taurus mountains, we looked down over the landscape at the plains where the ancient armies of Babylon and Egypt met, and where the Persian hordes of Xerxes marched on their way to do battle with the Spartans and Athenians.

"We were flying over battlefields

FLY FROM ALEPPO TO CONSTANTINOPLE

On the flight across Turkey, which the flyers made July 10, they met the first cold air since leaving the Kurile islands in northern Japan. The peaks of the Taurus mountains were snow capped, even in midsummer. They flew over Tarsus, the birthplace of Paul, and many places famous in history. At 11 in the afternoon Constantinople loomed ahead.

where Alexander and his Macedonian phalanx defeated the armies of Asia, where Rome came with her legions to fight at Antioch, to destroy Jerusalem and to build the citadel of the Decapolis, and where the armies of the Crusaders fought the fanatical warriors of the Saracens.

"Shades of Peter the Hermit, Richard the Lion Hearted, and Saint George, who slew the dragon, must have been watching us as we roared through the sky over these scenes of their triumphs.

Over Desert Again.
"At first we passed over miles of cultivated lands, and then we came to another stretch of desert. Far below us a long camel caravan was proceeding in the direction of Urfa, the ancient Edessa of the Greeks. We were just about to leave the region where since the dawn of time the Bedouins of the desert have trooped back and forth across Arabia with their camels, and the tribes have fought with each other for possession of them.

"Twenty miles a day is about all that such a caravan as we saw can make when on a long journey. When the airplane comes into its own within a few years, as it is sure to do, one wonders what will become of that most picturesque of men, the desert Arab. Journeys that take him two months can now be made by airplane between sunrise and sunset. Within a short time planes will be cheap enough so that even the Bedouin sheik can afford to have one.

"When that happens the day of desert rides on feet, Arabian horses and racing droveries will have passed, because the sheik with an airplane will be able to overtake and wipe out his enemy within a few minutes. Both the British in Mesopotamia and the French at Aleppo told us that the Arabs were wild about flying. When all the way from the Mediterranean to the little known highlands of Kurdistan. Everywhere we saw the crumbling fortresses of the ancient Armenian kings who once ruled as far south as the Taurus.

"The snow on these mountains, which form the boundary between Asia and the province of Konish, was the first we had seen since we caught a glimpse of the highest peaks in the world, the ice-capped Himalayas, near Ambala, India.

"We were now following the Berlin to Bagdad railway and at one place in the Taurus mountains we found ourselves in a narrow gorge where the tips of our wings nearly touched the walls on both sides. It was on this flight that we experienced the first intense cold that we had encountered since leaving the Kurile islands to the north of Japan.

"As we flew over the rift desert of Konish, just a little to the right of us was the country of the troglodytes of Cappadocia, a race of the strangest people in the whole world, whom we would have liked to have visited. A French archeologist in Aleppo told us a little about them. They dwell around the highest peak in Asia Minor, the famous extinct volcano of Argæus, which we kept in sight for hours.

Over Ancient Cliff Dwellers.

"These troglodytes live in natural skyscrapers, some of them almost as high as the skyscrapers of New York City. Their homes are in curious lava cones hundreds of feet high. The name of these people comes from the Greek and means to dwell in a hole. We flew over several colonies in the midst of the Taurus mountains, where instead of making their homes in volcanic cones they are cliff dwellers. But the cones are the widest and consist of pumice stones covered over with a layer of much harder lava.

"The people have changed very little since the days when Strabo and Herodotus wrote about them and called them the Ethiopians who live in holes. The pumice stone in which the habitations are cut is so soft that a large room can be hollowed out in a few weeks' time. It is estimated that there are more than 50,000 of these pumice cones inhabited by the troglodytes of Cappadocia, who live today just as they did 4,000 years ago.

"Flying on over the fertile plains of central Asia Minor past the city of Atum Karahissar, where so many British soldiers were imprisoned by the Turks during the world war, we looked down on towns and villages still in ruins from the more recent fighting between the Greeks and Turks, and at 1 o'clock we reached the shores of the Taurus mountains. In a few minutes more we knew that we would be flying over Constantinople and landing at last on the continent of Europe."

(To be continued tomorrow.)

HANDS OF DEATH

The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by auto, gun, and manslaughter in Cook county since Jan. 1.

JURY CHOOSING SLOW AT KYLE'S TRIAL FOR DEATH

A new set of qualifications for jurors who are to sit on speeding cases seems about to be established in Judge William J. Lindsay's court, where Joseph F. Kyle, a wealthy real estate man, is on trial on a manslaughter charge.

If a juror is a church member, or a farmer, if he's the father of a family or a middle class working man, he seems almost sure to be accepted by Clarence Darrow, Kyle's attorney, the challenge issued to jurors yesterday.

Kyle is being tried for the death of a farmer, Charles Hudson, killed as he came to market with his grandson at 6 o'clock on the morning of July 21, 1923, when his truck was rammed by a car driven by Kyle. The real estate man, with two cabaret entertainers and another man, had just left Colono's cabaret.

The state made few objections yesterday to the jurors questioned, but man after man fell beneath the questioning of Mr. Darrow, who confined himself mainly to questions about their religious connections, their education, their occupations, and their experience with cars.

The eight jurors who had been selected when court closed Monday night were all dismissed Tuesday morning when Prosecutor W. W. Smith told Judge Lindsay that Kyle had eaten breakfast at the Sherman hotel, in the same room with the eight chosen jurors.

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTO FRIDAY IS UNIDENTIFIED

Chicago's latest "mystery woman" is dying in the Chicago Lying-In hospital. She has been unconscious since she was hit by a taxicab Friday evening at Garfield boulevard and Wabash avenue.

There are no identification marks on her clothing. If she had a purse it was stolen from the scene of the accident.

The woman appears to be 35 years old and Jewish. She was struck by a cab driven by Frank Cannon, 515 West 9th street. bystanders say she stepped in front of the cab. Cannon locked his brakes and skidded completely around, striking her with the rear end of the car. Cannon and E. K. Parry, 4710 Forestville avenue, placed her in the machine and took her to the hospital.

She has a fractured skull and internal injuries.

NEBRASKA M. D. OFFERED MEDICAL CHAIR BY N. U.

Northwestern university, it was reported on the campus last night, has definitely offered the chair of dean of medicine to Fred Irving S. Cutler, holder of the same position at the University of Nebraska.

The position has been open nearly a year since Dr. Arthur I. Kendall resigned, ostensibly to devote himself to research work in St. Louis university, but actually, it was said, because of reluctance to admit grade to his medical classes.

Dr. J. P. Simons of Chicago accepted the place until such time as a committee could locate a suitable man. Cutler's name will go before the board of trustees for formal approval some time this month.

Shaw Pleads Not Guilty to Killing of Father

George Shaw, shell shocked soldier, who was recently indicted for the murder of his father, Bruce Shaw, of Oak Park, entered a plea of not guilty when he was arraigned before Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins in Criminal court yesterday. Judge Hopkins assigned the case for trial within the next two weeks.

CRIME CHECKS AID MILWAUKEE POLICE MORALE

System Seen as Keystone of Cops' Efficiency.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—System is the keystone of Milwaukee's police morale and efficiency. Methods evolved out of practical experience, coupled with the adoption of police procedure of several American cities, are keeping crime down and professional crooks out. John Bauechek, originator of the local plan and for twelve years superintendent of the bureau of identification, said today.

Detroit and New York contributed considerable to Milwaukee's efficiency plan—Chicago almost nothing. Mr. Bauechek admits that about all he got out of his study of the Chicago department were "some things from the pawnshop detail."

Milwaukee's system proved successful after three years of trial, says this expert.

Careful Checks Are Kept.

Daily, monthly, and annual reports on crimes, on arrests, and on the disposition of cases; similar reports on the activity of every man in the department; and the correlation and gathering together of every possible means of tracing criminals under the head of the bureau of identification—these seem to be the chief elements that have built up the department's morale.

Mr. Bauechek points out that it is not an uncommon occurrence for the bureau of identification to trip up a thief or highwayman who, has no criminal record, who has never had a mugshot taken, or been anywhere, simply by some stolen article that might be found in his pockets. He offers as an example of this the case of Walter Roloff, who today confessed to fifty burglaries over a considerable period of time. Roloff, although he had no record, was identified by a stolen watch.

"The reason for this is that we have every possible record right here in this bureau," Mr. Bauechek explained. "We have all records of stolen jewelry, stolen automobiles, all criminal correspondence, circulars, daily bulletins from all cities on the lake. Also we have all the Bertillon measurements, finger prints and photographs. If we don't trip the crook up on one, the chances are we will on another if he is wrong."

Keeps Tab on All Cops.

The daily records of the activities of all men in the department is a big asset, Mr. Bauechek further points out. The patrolman on the beat, must answer for his record as well as the keenest detective on the force. To headquarters come each month a card with the record of each man written down by the lieutenant of his district. Lieutenants here being similar in rank to captains in Chicago.

Crime is reported in the same manner on a daily, monthly, and yearly plan. This report is cumulative; it shows the day's happenings and how many of each kind of crime has taken place up to that particular day of the year. Every morning the report goes to the chief of police, who may then know from it exactly what his city's crime situation is.

Can Be Digested at Glance.

"It is not an involved report that takes the chief with his other duties a time to study it," says Bauechek. "It is just like all these others—a picture—and in five minutes glancing over it all he has it all."

One police official who has been following the crime situation in Chicago at this point remarked:

"Yes, and if Mayor Dwyer and Chief Collins had had such reports to turn to they would not have had to make denials that the force morale was broken down, nor would they have had to fight back. They would have needed only to pull out that day's report and it would have demonstrated at a glance just how the morale of the department stood."

4,000 Arrests in Year.

The annual report of the detective bureau here for the year 1934 showed that there were 4,000 arrests, with disposition of the cases as follows: 317 released, 462 dismissed by court, 1,788 fined, 376 placed on probation, 18 sent to the industrial school for boys, 7 sent to the county jail, 55 to the reformatory, 323 to the house of correction, 47 to state's prison, 118 returned to other cities, and 8 adjudge insane. This makes 3,439 definitely disposed of.

LECTURES AT "Y" FRIDAY.

CHIEF AND CRIME COMMISSION ROW OVER NEW DATA

Officials of the Chicago Crime Commission and Chief Collins tangled again yesterday in discussion of police department efficiency and morale.

Summaries of the department's work in solving major crimes during the forty-one days ending Jan. 10, indicate a constantly rising morale and a high degree of efficiency rather than the ebbing spirit charged by the commission, the chief insisted.

The chief reported that between Dec. 1 and Jan. 10, detective bureau squads had netted 110 gun totes in addition to making 89 arrests for robbery, 6 for burglary, 3 for murder and 5 for manslaughter. During the same period, policemen in outlying districts had made 121 arrests for robbery, 55 for burglary and 13 for murder.

Fill Chief With Pride.

"The accomplishments all me with pride," declared Chief Collins. "They refute effectively any claim of the crime commission that the morale or efficiency of the department is waning."

The crime commission officials, however, made quick reply, reiterating their theory that the number of arrests is no measure of police efficiency, and pointed out that the chief's report did not include a comparison with the department's activities during the previous forty-one days.

The commission adds there is no comparison with the same period last year, and no report of the number of murders, robberies, and burglaries committed during the forty-one days.

"The measure of police efficiency in combating murder or any other crime is the arrest and conviction of the criminal," declared one of the commission officials, who, because a new bulletin dealing with the subject is in preparation, would not permit his name to be used at this time. "It is not the number of persons arrested that counts as much as it is the number of cases actually solved by the arrests."

"The answer is found solely in convictions. Many are arrested and most of them are released. Some are tried and acquitted. Yet police records would probably show the cases solved."

Crime During 41 Days.

During the forty-one days included by the chief in his report, 38 murders, 365 burglaries, and 218 robberies were listed in the police department records, crime commission investigators found.

"My report, naturally, does not show the disposition of the cases," declared Chief Collins when absence of a comparison was noted. "I did not intend to make any comparisons."

WORKERS HURT AS STEEL FALLS AT MOODY CHURCH

A crash that was heard for blocks, the injury of two workmen, one seriously, and the tearing of a big gap in the temporary wooden tabernacle in which the Moody congregation worshipped yesterday marked the falling of sixty tons of steel belonging to the new $1,000,000 Moody church in course of erection.

Charles Egan, 4182 North Kahle avenue, was the most seriously injured workman. The other injured man was Michael Mullens, 2216 West Harrison street.

Three taxi drivers were robbed. They were Robert M. Savage, 5543 Indiana avenue; Leon Ward, 2138 South Dearborn street; and Peter McLaughlin, 2425 Lexington avenue.

Three colored robbers took $3 from Thomas Collins, 4940 Ellis avenue, and a lone highwayman took $168 from Edwin Krenn, 3645 Seminary avenue.

Three masked bandits entered the coffee house at 943 West Harrison street, lined up a dozen patrons, and fled with $300.

FOES OF 40 YEARS UNITE TO BATTLE ITALY'S PREMIER

Oppose Mussolini's New Electoral Law.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
ROME, Jan. 12.—Former Premier Crispien, Salandra, and Orlando, twenty-eight deputies, representing opposition inside the chamber of deputies, met this evening to discuss the political situation.

It was decided to fight the new elec-tional bill on general principles and not to vote against the cabinet. The cabinet also expressed the opinion that Premier Mussolini is not qualified to hold new elections.

The occasion marked a rapprochement between Signor Salandra and Crispien, who were political rivals for many years. The deputies cheered when the two buried the hatchet and shook hands.

"Page Fears Anti-Masonic Law.

Experts of canonical law at the Vatican are closely studying the text of the proposed law, aimed to wipe out secret societies, one of the church's longest enemies. The Vatican is excited over the character of the first paragraph of the legislation, primarily aimed at Freemasons.

It is held by the Vatican's experts that the law, if passed, would object to other holy orders come within the scope of the regulations. Publication of their constitutions, membership list, or internal regulations would be contrary to the canonical regulations, it is declared.

While the Vatican is certain Premier Mussolini is not aiming his campaign against the church, it would object seriously to such a law being placed on the statute books on the grounds that some future government might use it to suppress the church. The provision that publication be made only on demand is not deemed sufficient to safeguard the religious orders.

Vatican May Make Protest.
If the Vatican experts find their interests jeopardized a protest from the papal see will doubtless be forthcoming, which may bring changes restricting the scope of the law to purely nonreligious societies.

Neutral newspapers like the Messag-gero severely criticize Premier Mus-solini's latest move against the opposition, pointing out that the law, if enacted, will only drive Masonry underground. That membership in an order of this sort should have entrance to public services also is harshly dealt with.
The chamber of deputies met again today but the debates were unproductive. The law, however, is expected to pass in the near future.

Mayor has practically indicated by his actions that he is not in a position to persecute the people here these chambers if he has to victory other law in his efforts to do and regardless of the fact that the might be unanimously against it.
The law is so much violence and when the entire law enforcement is affected with such a measure, this man has proved to be much than his reputation. Dime, or Thompson is just as successful in his efforts to prevent the construction of a new and is promulgating some serious municipal ordinances of street cars is nothing but the old Dime stuff and over, and as that was thoroughly defeated and buried at the time Dime defeated for reelection, it should not be given the dignity of a referendum.
If it is, it will be defeated as badly as any other measure. The fact that anybody advocates it will be enough to defeat it. If it is to be built, it must be by action of the council.
They don't want to do it. It is beyond power of comprehension. They clean up as they never have done before. Real estate exporting would be a very bad thing. It would be beneficial to the city, and even if it did result in a loss it would be worth it if it did not too heavy.

Mayor has been treated entirely fairly by the press and people of the city. The thing to do with him is to let him go with a clean conscience. He does every day to lay himself open to criticism.

TAXICAB USED AS CORK TO BOTTLE GUNMEN IN ALLEY

Three youthful robbers were captured last night through the bravery of a taxicab driver.
The robbers had bound Joseph La-brosse with neckties from his own barberdressing at 6225 Cottage Grove avenue. They also tied up the shopkeep-er's son, Leo, 18 years old. Then they leisurely carried away all the goods they could lift.

They fled in an automobile. The Labrosse wrestled out of their bonds and ran after the car, shouting.
Charles Langley, the cab driver, followed the thieves' auto.
The fugitives turned into a blind alley on 44th street. Before they could back out Langley's car was blocking the entrance.

DURING January these very good-looking and very low-priced Linen Dresses appeal especially for home uses, but in a short time they will be seen on the porch, in the garden and many other favored places.

The first Frock pictured, of Irish linen, has interesting tucks at the sides of the skirt; the third is of Belgian linen with most effective hand-drawn work, hand embroidery and a narrow plaiting edging its round collar. The second, of Irish linen, gains a smart coat effect through its inch-wide strip of white suiting. Other types as attractive have jabots, tuckings, ties, large pearl buttons.

Ether Wafts "Mikado" to Happy Elmer

Calls It His Best Radio Treat.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The most enjoyable radio evening I ever had.

I have heard many light and grand operas over the radio, some of them having been listened to in a sort of perfunctory, educational way, but never have I heard anything quite so interesting as this well done as the broadcast of "The Mikado" by W-G-N from the Great Northern theater last night.

In comparison with every former broadcast, the remarkable thing was the distinctness with which the words, songs, chorus and orchestra could be heard. A striking instance of this occurred in the finale of the first act. The orchestra began quietly, then increased to the full orchestra, and so clear cut that each instrument could be distinguished. Then the soloists broke in just as though they had been placed before the microphone with studied precision, and finally the entire chorus opened up, producing volume and mass effects that were as musically interesting as they were as valuable from a broadcasting standpoint. As this 1935 moment De Wolf Hopper is singing, in his own inimitable characteristic way, "The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring"—voice deep and rich, now sobbing, now mocking, but fascinating to a degree. And now "Till Willow"—to Katsiha, full of pathos, changing our former moments of irresponsible humor and mirth to one of utter sadness, of desperation—such is the art of this artist. We, too, are applauding with the audience.

And for the first time in any stage or operatic broadcast in Chicago announcements of the progress of the play were made through a separate microphone in one of the boxes. The announcing was so clear and distinct that I was under the impression that this could not have been the case, that the microphone must have been made from the wings, off the stage, until assured later by Announcer Quin Ryan that he actually was in an upper left hand box.

Considering the remarkable improvement of this innovation, it is not at all likely that any stage or operatic performance will ever again be broadcast in Chicago without some announcement being located somewhere in the theater where he can actually watch the performance and impart the necessary details to the radio audience.

Brief mention just must be made of the playing of the Largo and Vivace movements from Bach's Concerto for Two Violins in D minor, from WECH at 11:45, by Noel Smith and Wally Heyman, with Cordell Schellinger at the piano, for not only was this beautiful classic artistically played, but this permits me to mention that every photograph owner owes it to himself or herself to own the marvellously perfect record of this Bach gem.

Edith Wimmer, a contralto on the KTW 8 o'clock program, was heard in several numbers, revealing a wonderful contralto voice.

During the intermission between the first and second act of "The Mikado" I was able to hear, at WMAQ at 1:45, "Hondo Capriccio," Op. 24, by Franz Liszt, played so charmingly by Mrs. Alma Steiner Mathies, pianist, that it might have served as extra act music. This was followed by a marvellously tragic, and impressive to a degree, "Over the Steps" (or "Over the Steps") by Gretchenhof, sung by Mrs. Angie Montgomery, contralto. Contralto here is a wonderful, wonderful contralto composition. I wish I could hear it over again right now, and tomorrow and many more times thereafter.

CITY'S LAWYER DRAWS THREAT FROM JUDGE

Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court yesterday threatened Frank J. Tyrrell, assistant corporation counsel, with contempt of court and gave him until Jan. 20 to show cause why he should not be punished.

The judicial threat was the crisis of a scene in which the judge took issue with two city and two county departments. It arose over the case of Detective Sergeant Anthony J. McGinnis and John Murphy, who themselves stand in the way of receiving contempt sentences because of an alleged attempt to extradite Jacob Schuster despite judicial interdiction.

Schuster is wanted in Boston for abandoning his wife and child. Officer George McDermott came from the east to take him back. At a hearing Jan. 9 Judge Lyle believed the case should be investigated further and ordered that Schuster be not molested in the meantime.

THIEVE TAKE $15,000 IN WINE FROM WAREHOUSE

Thieves yesterday stole forty barrels of wine, valued at between $10,000 and $15,000, from the warehouse of the Bluegrass Bros. Canning company, 55 East Austin street. It was the second robbery there in two weeks.

The bandits timed their arrival to the hour when the watchman was at dinner. Then they leisurely dragged the forty barrels to elevators, took them to the first floor loading platform, and put them aboard trucks, at least four being needed, police estimated.

CHICAGO BEER RUNNER GETS 10 MONTHS IN JAIL

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—(Special.)—Tommy O'Donnell, leader of a crew of Chicago beer runners, captured by federal officials while in the act of piloting fourteen auto truck loads of beer out of the Fort Atkinson, Wis., brewery in September, was sentenced to ten months in the Milwaukee house of correction when he pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to violate the prohibition law before Judge Claude Z. Lusk in federal court here today. He was also fined $1,000.

Ten of the men arrested with O'Donnell were freed. The rest pleaded guilty. Conrad Behr, Chicago, an employee of the Fort Atkinson brewery for three months and previous to that a resident of Chicago, was sentenced to three months at the house of correction. John Wilson, Chicago, was fined $350. Frank Wells and Joe Timmons of Chicago were each fined $200. The Bremer brewery, Fort Atkinson, was fined $1,500.

GUN FIGHTER TAKEN AS FAKE STAMP SELLER

Anthony Volpe, alias Tony Mops, notorious gun fighter of the old Nineteenth ward, was arrested yesterday by secret service operatives under Capt. Thomas I. Porter on charges that he sold counterfeit war savings stamps with a face value of more than $40,000.

According to Capt. Porter, his men have collected evidence through which they expect to prove Volpe was one of the principals of the ring in which Ben Newman, assistant state fire marshal, is charged with being one of the leaders.

Despite his assertions that he is a henchman of "Diamond Joe" Esposito and could be entrusted with freedom on a low bond, United States Commissioner Henry C. Justice fixed his bail at $25,000. He continued the case to Jan. 22.

Veteran Soldiers, Inc., Chief Is Found Guilty

Marshall D. Joiner, once president of the Veteran Soldiers, Inc., was found guilty yesterday in Judge Eberhardt's court of obtaining money under false pretenses from persons who had been solicited to donate funds for wounded veterans of the world war. The prosecution, conducted by Assistant State's Attorney Harry Pritzker and Howard Savage, state commander of the American Legion, was the first of its kind to be successful in this state. The Veteran Soldiers, Inc., had an office at 155 North Clark street and solicitors hired by Joiner kept half of the money given to them, while Joiner kept the rest, according to the testimony.

SOFT BONES—RICKETS

It has been said that "one half of our children have or have had rickets," and this bone-weakness appears to be increasing, doubtless due to vitamin-deficient nourishment.

HOYNE DEFENDS CONDUCT IN COAL CONSPIRACY SUIT

MacLay Hoyne, former state's attorney, on the witness stand yesterday before Superior Judge Denis H. Sullivan gave his version of events which James M. McElvaine, downstate coal operator, described as a conspiracy between Hoyne and Fred A. Burton, who client, to cheat him of $100,000.

Burton is being sued by McElvaine for a return of his property, and by Attorney Frank Crozier for $100,000, which he claims was taken by Hoyne and Burton from Mrs.

MACLAY HOYNE.
(Moffet Photo.)

Crozier by threats similar to those testified to by McElvaine.

Defends His Conduct.

Hoyne was questioned about the threats of life imprisonment and disbarment which McElvaine charged the defendants had made. His testimony indicated the transactions were entirely lawful efforts by Burton to recover from Crozier and McElvaine what they had unlawfully taken from him.

The beginning of the action was an arbitration submitted to by the Burton Coal company and McElvaine's company, the Freeman Coal Mining company. Burton's company was required by the arbitrators to pay $52,000 to McElvaine.

On Jan. 12, 1922, Mr. Hoyne testified: "We went to confront McElvaine. His partner, Carley H. Hoy, was called into the conference. Mr. Burton told McElvaine he had been robbed of $100,000 by the crooked arbitration. He had investigated and had the evidence, and he wanted his money, Mr. Burton said."

Contract Drawn Up.

"Burton asked them what they were going to do about it, and then McElvaine and Hoy withdrew and consulted with each other."

"After some negotiating," Mr. Hoyne said, "McElvaine offered to turn over every share of stock in the company to Burton in full settlement of all claims. Mr. Burton asked me to draw up a contract. That night I prepared the contract in which McElvaine admitted an unlawful conspiracy with Crozier, and McElvaine signed it. I also drew up their resignations from the company and McElvaine and Hoy signed them."

Mr. Hoyne will resume his testimony this morning.

SOLD $140,000 WORTH OF FAKE OIL LEASES; HELD

Oil gushers that didn't gush despite $140,000 which is alleged to have been invested for their development yesterday were real, usable for the holding of Ralph A. Plate, former head of the Guarantees Investment company, to the grand jury on bonds of $5,000.

Back in 1920, Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy told Judge John H. Lyle, Plate sold interests in Texas oil leases to many Chicago and Peoria investors. He talked of sinking wells, but when no returns on their money arrived the investors grew suspicious.

One of them, Dr. Charles A. Donovan, 5905 South Halsted street, went to Texas to investigate. He found, he told the court yesterday, that Plate's leases had expired before he had begun his selling campaign. Plate was alleged to have received $90,000 in Peoria and $50,000 in Chicago. He was held on five charges, each one calling for a $1,000 bond.

NEW BATTLE FOR SHANGHAI NEAR; 100,000 TO FIGHT

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1923, by The Chicago Tribune.)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12.—Marshal Lu Yung-hsiang is moving 40,000 troops towards Shanghai from Nanking and Marshal Chi Hsieh-yuan, who with Gen. Sun Chuan-fang controls Shanghai, is moving his forces northward to block the advance, thus reopening the military campaign for the possession of this port. Marshal Lu represents the Peking government, while Chi, an adherent of Wu Pei-fu, refuses to accept the Peking mandate ousting him as military governor of Kiangsu province.

Expect Bitter Battle.

Chi and Sun Chuan-fang have about 60,000 troops in the vicinity of Shanghai and, unless something prevents, a new outbreak is likely near the town of Soochow, just north of Shanghai. Since Lu's force is composed entirely of crack Feng-tien troops, with a sprinkling of Russian and other foreigners, opinion here expects that the clash will be equally as serious as the forty day war during last September and October.

U. S. Destroyers En Route.

The American navy is rushing a destroyer fleet here from Manila to protect American citizens, while the foreign volunteer corp is fully mobilized to handle the problem created by the influx of defeated troops into the foreign settlements. In the last two days more than 5,000 disarmed troops have been admitted and placed in internment camps under guard. Refugees are still flocking into the foreign settlements, fearing disorder and looting incident in the renewed warfare.

Pardoned; No Place to Go; Will Remain in Prison

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 12.—Special.—Enfeebled, broken in spirit, and with no friends to turn to, Hugh Robbards, 70, pardoned by Gov. Nate Kendall after serving thirty years on a murder charge, plans to remain in Fort Madison penitentiary, according to information received from prison officials today. With Leon Hardy, Robbards was sentenced in 1894 for slaying two railroad policemen. Hardy, also freed, left today for Texas. Both have always protested their innocence.

Hidden strength guarantees longer usefulness from even low-priced L. B. desks

WHETHER it's an elaborate desk for the chief executive of your firm or just a desk for your office boy, come to Library Bureau! In every L. B. desk, regardless of price, even the hidden parts are scientifically and strongly built.

Examine, for instance, the drawer in the lowest-priced L. B. desk. The back is made of extra heavy wood and is firmly dovetailed to the sides of the drawer—for at that point a drawer suffers the greatest strain.

The 3-ply built-up bottom gives extra strength and will not warp, crack or shrink. These are unusual features to find in so low-priced a desk.

On actual display in our showrooms are five complete lines of desks, chairs and tables. The range is so comprehensive in quality as well as price that you can find your every desk requirement here.

We like careful, critical buyers. Won't you come in? Or phone for an L. B. salesman who will gladly call.

Take Both Together

Milk of Magnesia and Mineral Oil Now Combined

One of the most important medical achievements of recent years is the combination of milk of magnesia and mineral oil. Haley's Magnesia-Oil successfully combines the two, and makes them doubly effective.

The oil carries the magnesia straight to the lower bowel, the seat of most so-called stomach trouble. All of the antacid properties of the milk of magnesia are applied to correcting the trouble at its source. Poisonous acids are neutralized, clogged tracts are lubricated—at one and the same time. Action is prompt, but devoid of griping. Delightful to take; no oily taste. Can be mixed with milk and given children without their knowledge.

Get a bottle of Haley's Magnesia-Oil today. Most druggists sell it. If you can't supply you we will mail a bottle postpaid on receipt of price. Large family size, $1. The Haley M-O Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

YOUNG BILL HART NAPS AS PARENTS TILT IN COURT

Mother Sues for Right to Appear in Movies.

BY GEORGE SHAFER.
Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 13.—[Special.]—Two year old Bill Hart Jr., with his mother's blonde hair and his daddy's poker face, slept in court today. He sat in the lap of his mother, Winifred Westover Hart, who brought suit trying to break the provisions of her legal separation from the mother's "two gun man," a contract which was made when they separated.

Six feet away sat Bill Hart, flanked by attorneys who were there to carry out his directions to keep Winifred out of the films.

Two Trust Funds.
Among these provisions of the contract involved were the establishing of two $100,000 trust funds by Hart, the income to go to Mrs. Hart yearly. Another fund of $100,000 was to keep little Bill.

In return for the money settlement, Mrs. Hart signed an agreement to stay out of the films, to permit no photographs of herself for commercial purposes, nor to go on the stage or become an entertainer. It is this agreement that Mrs. Hart seeks to nullify.

Neither Hart nor his wife looked at each other, although the actor shot several quick glances at the baby.

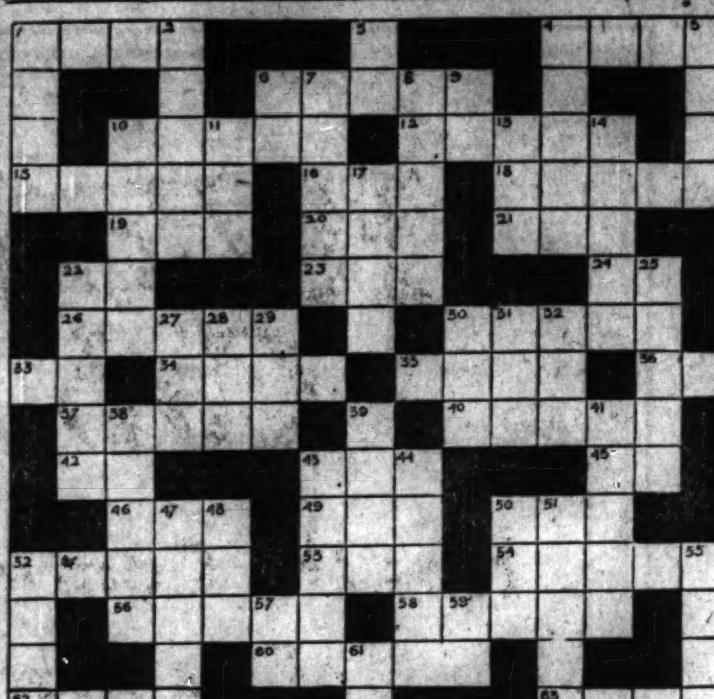

Decision on Thursday.
After four hours of legal argument and objection the issue simmered to the possibility of separating the paragraph barring Mrs. Hart from the films from the whole contract of settlement, without voiding it all, and Judge Lee announced he will give a decision Thursday as to whether this paragraph is separable.

Mrs. Hart's attorneys contend the paragraph is in restraint of trade. Hart's lawyers state that in divorcing a married woman has no right to engage in business without the consent of her husband unless he is not supporting her and she gets a court order so stating.

WOMAN PERISHES ON DARING CLIMB OF LONG'S PEAK

Estes Park, Colo., Jan. 13.—Walter Kriener, companion of Miss Agnes Valle, secretary of the Denver chamber of commerce, who perished during a perilous climb to the summit of Long Peak Monday, told today the story of hardship and suffering, encountered by the daring climbers in arctic temperatures at an elevation of nearly 14,000 feet.

Kriener is lying in a bed at Don's Peak inn, near here, suffering from frozen feet and hands.

Miss Valle was the daughter of P. O. Valle, Denver millionaire. She attended two summer seasons at Northwestern University.

Caught in Sub-Zero Blizzard.

As the couple ascended the east side of the peak last Sunday there was a sudden drop in temperature, he said. The thermometer he carried showed it was 50 degrees below zero. The drop in temperature was accompanied by a swirling blizzard that enveloped them.

"It was sundown," he said, "when we decided we'd just as well go up as we would have to make the descent in the dark. Arrived at the top, we started downward immediately."

"We were coming down a slope when Miss Valle slipped. She slid about 150 feet before she stopped. She wasn't hurt physically, but, after the hardship, it unnerved her. We continued."

Leaves Her to Go for Aid.

"Miss Valle called that her feet and hands were frozen. 'I can't go on,' she declared. I tried to carry her and stumbled along for a while. But it was useless. Leaving her propped against the lee side of a boulder, I struck out for the timberline cabin for aid."

A rescue party there started upward at once.

A member of the rescue party, Herbert Sorling, strayed from the party and was lost. No trace of him had been found up to tonight. Several hours later the searchers came on the frozen body of Miss Valle.

SMOKE KILLS AGED EVANSTON DEAF WOMAN

Death yesterday cost the life of Mrs. Julia C. Smith, 65 years old. She lay sleeping while fire raged in her home at 730 Madison street, Evanston, and was overcome by smoke when firemen finally carried her to the street.

Her brother, Oscar, his wife, and several children were slightly burned in fleeing to safety.

Smith and his wife were awakened by the crackling of flames on the first floor. As they plunged through the smoke their first thought was for the safety of the three children, asleep in other rooms.

They gathered up the babies and fled down the stairs and across the hall, which was already in flames. After reaching the street they attempted to return for the aged woman, but the fire barred them.

By the time Evanston firemen arrived the lower floor was filled with flames. They ran a ladder to the second story, entered through a window, and carried out Mrs. Smith.

She was hurried to St. Francis hospital, Evanston, but died several hours later. Loss on the house was estimated at $5,000.

Irving Washington

Dies; Funeral Tomorrow

Irving Washington, 65 years old, and at one time business agent for the city, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Pfeiffer, 1509 Tower road, Winnetka. For many years he was well known in business and political circles. He is survived by his widow, a son, Lawrence, of New York City, and his daughter, Winnetka. Funeral services will be held at the Winnetka home tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

BISHOP BROWN'S HEARING REVIVES CREED DISPUTES

Appeals from Conviction of Heresy.

Cleveland, O., Jan. 13.—The catholicity of the Protestant Episcopal church in America, the origin and authenticity of the Nicene creed, and the binding effect of the creeds upon the members of the church were discussed today in the opening argument of counsel for Bishop William Montgomery Brown, appealing from his conviction last May for heresy.

Joseph W. Shurtz of Dayton, Ohio, chief counsel for [P. and A. Photo] the bishop, occupied the time of the church's board of review in the initial proceedings of the appeal. Tomorrow Charles Dibble of Kalamazoo, Mich., church advocate, will argue for upholding the conviction by the trial court of bishops last May, after which Mr. Shurtz will conclude the arguments.

To Make Personal Appeal.
The final fifteen minutes of the appeal, it was announced tonight, will be given over to a statement by Bishop Brown, in which he is expected to make a direct appeal to his fellow bishops for retention of his office in the church.

The catholicity of the church was brought into the proceedings when Bishop J. De Wolfe Perry of Rhode Island asked Mr. Shurtz for the latter's definition of "doctrine."

"Two theories of doctrine are presented to you in these proceedings," replied Mr. Shurtz. "In one the proposition contends that the church has formulated its doctrine in the words of the creeds. But we maintain that this is a catholic church, Protestant in only some of its aspects."

Doctrines Not Formulated.
"If this church had formulated its doctrine in a set of words it would be a sect. We say doctrine is a bird that dies when caged and that while catholicity provides catechisms and creeds, it relegates them to their proper place, constituting them as symbols of doctrine."

"This catholic church, we maintain, has found its doctrine in holy scriptures and has refused to formulate them."

The attorney went on to illustrate by quoting the creeds as to the "Resurrection of the Flesh."

"The creeds don't say that," interrupted Bishop C. E. Brewster of Con-

GETS JUMP ON POLICE CHAMP, BUT LOSES RACE

George Craig, 623 South Peoria street, holds no record, but yesterday he defeated Policeman Dan Ahern, holder of the world's record for the hop, skip and jump in an impromptu match in Craig's flat.

When Craig learned that Ahern had come to arrest him he took a running leap and hurdle through a second-story window. Ahern did a hop, skip and jump down the stairs, then sprinted a Dan Ahern, hundred yards and caught his man.

Robbery victims were asked to inspect Craig, who was locked up in the Maxwell street police station.

neither, another member of the court. "They speak of the resurrection of the body."

"Does that not mean flesh and bones?" queried Mr. Shurtz.

"On that point the church stands on what St. Paul said," replied Bishop Brewster, and it was explained afterward that he referred to this passage:

"I know that my Redeemer liveth and though worms destroy this mortal body, yet in my flesh shall I see God."

Mr. Shurtz declared that the Nicene creed had been formulated in A. D. 325 by a council which was under the domination of the Emperor Constantine, whose character he assailed.

He dilated upon the superstition of the age and attacked Constantine's character, adding:

"It is treason to the human soul to say that in that age and under such a master mankind reached its ultimate conception of Deity."

3 DEMANDS HALT JAP RECOGNITION OF SOVIET RUSSIA

French Warn Moscow to End Propaganda.

BY RODERICK MATHESON.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)

TOKIO, Jan. 13.—The foreign office, which let it be known yesterday that recognition of Soviet Russia by Japan was almost certain to be announced within a few days, today stated that 1,000 points have not yet been settled in the negotiations. Japan is adamant on these points:

1. Japan demands 50 per cent of the output of oil in Sakhalin island. Russia is willing to concede 40 per cent.

2. Japan demands binding guarantees that Russia will not spread propaganda in Japanese controlled territory. Russia is willing to promise, but not guarantee.

3. Japan wants to evacuate Sakhalin in the spring. Russia demands immediate evacuation.

Reds Stir French Ire.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—[By Associated Press.]—That there is some tension between France and Russia was indicated today by Premier Herriot after today's cabinet meeting, when he told newspapermen that "if the soviets continue to carry out a soviet policy in France a collision might result."

M. Herriot said the instructions carried to Moscow by Jean Herbet the new French ambassador to Russia, contained this intimation to the soviet government.

Also tension arises mainly from a speech made by M. Zinovieff, president of the Third International, to the directing committee of the communists, which was held Berlin and printed by L'Humanite.

Must Act on Defensive.

In his address M. Zinovieff said the communist party should first direct its blows against fascism, as the French socialists supporting the government rapidly were becoming a fascist organization.

"Our demonstration at the funeral of Jean Leon Jaures, the French socialist leader, was evidence of the beginning of a mass movement, but our part is to act on the defensive for the present."

Would Welcome Yanks.

PARIS, Jan. 13.—Reports that a United States senate committee may visit Russia preparatory to the negotiation of treaties and the recognition of the soviets are received with glee in communist quarters here.

The Russian ambassador, M. Krasin, states that the Moscow authorities will gladly welcome the distinguished American visitors and help them sightsee through the country, as there is nothing to hide.

California Where the Flying Fishes Play

WATER sports of all kinds find perfect conditions along Southern California's coast. There, the flying fishes play and the big tuna leaps.

The marvels of the ocean's depths, seen through glass-bottom boats at Catalina are like living pages from "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

And then, there's the mainland with its green and golden orchards, palms, romantic old Missions, colorful beaches and splendid cities.

California's Call

It's Sounding Now!

Find as good a place elsewhere—if you can. Tell yourself that somewhere else where it is warm and sunny will do as well. But when your playtime is over, you'll wish in your heart that you had come to California.

California simply can't be put into words. Its sunshine is magic. It puts youth in the heart. The flowers, the skies, and the sea have a quality that's—well, it's California. Somehow it's a place that doesn't know how to disappoint.

Business Is Good In Southern California

Note These Figures Concerning Los Angeles

1. Bank deposits in Los Angeles increased from $2,048,000,000 in 1921 to $2,194,538,278 in 1931.

HERE you may do the things you want to do—things that mean complete mental relaxation and physical rest.

Sun yourself on the warm sands by the Pacific. Play golf on sporty courses. Follow bridge paths up the mountain sides, into canyons or through rolling meadows. Sail before a fresh ocean breeze. Visit an island that rises like Capri from the sea. Hike where you will. Or just loaf.

4000 miles of paved boulevards lead to a thousand wonders. There's a desert like Sahara. You pass great groves of oranges, walnuts and olives. There are palm-lined drives with palatial homes and gardens filled with gorgeous blossoms. You see the old Spanish missions—crumbling, yet inspiring still.

Here are communities that are famous wherever resorts are known: Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Riverside, Catalina Island, Ojai, Santa Ana, Long Beach, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Santa Monica.

Whether it is rest, a milder climate, recreation or Nature's rare beauty that you seek—a visit to Southern California will fulfill your every desire.

It's the complete change that does you good. The air is invigorating. You play outdoors every day whether you remain two weeks or two months.

You can come now if you will for there are accommodations to fit every purse. Limited trains that rank with the world's finest leave daily for California (No extra fares). Give yourself this greatest of all vacation trips now. See this land of unending interest and rare variety this winter. Win new strength and vigor in its great outdoors.

Its atmosphere is clean and wholesome—it is warm in winter and cool in summer—it has recently been redecorated and refurbished throughout—it has a large, beautiful lounge, charmingly furnished. It contains hotel rooms, kitchenette apartments of two, three or four rooms, completely equipped for housekeeping—at reasonable prices.

It contains a service dining room under the personal supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Copeland, where no expense is spared in the preparation of a great variety of delectable food to tempt and satisfy the most exacting. It has accommodations for dinner parties, dances and receptions. All intoxicating liquors of every description are absolutely prohibited. For accommodations—Phone Sunnyside 7000.

C. & S. CAFETERIA

Here in a ground floor corner of The Copeland we have just opened the C. & S. Cafeteria—a particular place for particular people to eat—where well-cooked, dainty food is made to taste better by high-class appointments and super-service.

It is a real place for all who enjoy real things to eat—the same high standard of both food and service which has made Copeland Cafeterias so popular. Refined surroundings, good cuisine and reasonable prices prevail.

North Side buses stop in front of the Cafeteria, and the Elevated Lines are but a block and a half distant. To eat here once is to come again!

near to have been camped, in passage, on two needle peaks, set close by the island's center, and dominating it.

"Now again, when they were so close, Palmyra could see that the mountains forested to their tops, could note where the plantations gave way to bush, the Lupeu-Noa came plowing down upon them. This time, however, the savages did not hide. The lesser riak lay in flight. He drove their killing till the girl felt it must go over. But she worked steadily with the loom. As additional sail, she spread the gay parsel that Olive, beset by other circumstances, had always managed to save.

"For an interval they went on this, before it became evident Ponape had made them out. Then the altering course of the schooner showed want to lay them aboard, either in recognition or for inspection.

"The first indication was a small boat, half a dozen natives, near the long line of breakers that hurtled against the barrow surrounding the island, and was a quarter mile strip of shallow water on top of the reef. Then two mangroves, backed by the cocoanut plantations and the beautiful tapestry of the treetsops on the mountain slopes.

"But the girl had no thought for these. Burke was perhauling the canoe slacking speed. She looked piteously from the schooner to the face of brown man. But it was still the same unrevealing mask. Did he know and question he could win to land, or was it that he had no hope at all?
He saw he looked frequently from the Pigeon of Noah to some point off. And presently he tried, with informative forefinger, to point out the opening they must gain to reach shore. The passage was still so far she could not make it out, but she understood. If the white man, with greater speed, could work in and head them off, their capture would be easy.
He held his canoe doggedly to its course. For these things she thought his grim race—life, death, or worse if his own brutal life thrust of hon. A while there seemed to her no chance of escape. Gradually, however, the girl came to feel this could never be. She wrung her hands in the stared ahead with tear dimmed eyes. On the one side the Lupeu-Noa crowding them in. On the other, the long cruel line of the surf drew near.
There could be no course to sail between the two.

Presently the schooner was so close Palmyra could make out Pompadour on its deck, covering them with his glasses. The reef wall was now so immediately at hand she could see that this reason of the coral broken off and packed down by the trumple of the sea was higher than the rest of the reef behind, the surface or reef table, stretched inland to the beach. The barrier was armored in brown knobs of coral, with their toothed faces like a giant nutmeg grater, against the sea could grind the canoe into splinters. From the top of a wave the girl would look beyond the surt to the pro-sallow water on the reef. The next moment a sea would boil in, pause along above the rim, crash down in an explosion that sent the spray sky high. And when the comber receded, the jagged coral, as if by its own action, would rise ponderously out of the water, spouting a wind of sea spray like the yawning jaws of some aged sea monster, with slimy yellow

[illegible]

There was just one problem in the rhythm of the surf when he could encooed. He caught the moment when the wave had crashed down upon the beach and the violence of the impact had died away. He was two hundred or three hundred yards from shore. If that had not carried him far after a wash he had been in. He would have been caught by the next wave. He poured back into the ocean. And above all, he must not breathe. He was in the trough of a sea, or the next wave would hurl the canoe against the rocks to death.

He paddled, poised, awaited the stroke. Then, as the next surge picked up, he sent the canoe straight in with all his might. Almost as the canoe exploded, there the green waves picked it up, with a solid roar, and carried it back to shore.

He coughed. He gasped. He staggered. He coughed.

Good morning!

"Easiest of lives," summers in the summer glow that always envelops the subject of marriage between the races. It is from the play by W. Somerset Maugham and is the tragic story of a beautiful half-caste girl, who, after twenty years spent in America where her father had kept her in ignorance of her birth, returns to China to find herself an outcast.

The father, a Britisher by birth and breeding, realising the fate his unloved daughter had suffered, had not been brave enough to meet her and witness her misery. He commits suicide. The daughter arrives at the end of her journey, a broken and defeated girl, finally by a Chinese woman, who tells her fondly:

"I your old nurse."

But she isn't the old nurse. She's the mother, and when Daisy Forbes discovers this fact, she knows why she has been let so severely alone by the white residents of the city, and her mother's face, which she has seen on the face of the blow struck by the British consul, who brings her a note from a nephew in which the latter, to whom she had become engaged on a shipboard during the voyage from England, tells her that all must be as terrible times, then, for Daisy Forbes, scorned by the white people whose ways are the only ways she knows, courted by the colored people, and despised and slandered; married to an American who treats her differently—and, for the consul, granted sympathy with the consul's nephew, who refuses to listen any longer to the words of the old nurse, who tells her of her husband's death, takes her

Some of the scenes for "Madame Sans-Gêne," starring Gloria Swanson, were made at a château at Malmaison, France.

"The Desert Flower," the melodramatic comedy that has been running in New York, will be used as a screen vehicle for Colleen Moore.

Irene Rich has started something. She is having pockets put in the sleeves of her different street and tailored costumes. In the pockets she tucks dashing wee handkerchiefs, lend a touch of color to otherwise sober garments. The pocket is located about three or four inches below the elbow.

to better or for worse, and bears him back to English shores.

It is rarely that either pictures or plays have such an ending. The feeling against intermarriage is too strong in "East of Suez," you see, dares a point.

Polu Nagri brings to her rôle of the half-caste, beauty, sympathy, and regal stolidity, which are what the part requires. As she can look French and Chinese, so she can give verisimilitude to the picture. Chinese lady.

The men in the cast were all well chosen. Edmund Lowe, in a straight romantic part, is nice. Rockliffe as a villain makes a brutal villain, and Sol Herson as a Buddhist, Jack, a determined Buddhist lover is cruel and realistic.

The best hits, however, are done by Noah Beery as the consul, torn between love and sympathy for his nephew and determination that the nephew shall not make an ill-considered marriage; and E. H. Calvert as the white man, who because he DID make such a marriage cannot meet the eyes of white men.

The first part of the picture is better than the latter, which lacks continuity, and in its conscientious attempt to deal out to everybody what everybody deserves becomes rather tedious.

See you tomorrow!

"Rigoletto," quickly substituted his night-for "The Tales of Hoffmann," carried at least one member as connecting link between the two. That member was Florence Macbeth, appearing as Glilda, a lovely singer and one of the company's first artists, who, surrounded with good reasons for the success of her performances. Her "Car-None" ranks among the high points of the season.

Charles Hackett was the duke, pitching the character in the true note of romance. Because of his sweet but somewhat careful, but because of his own artistic ability he sang well. The Rigoletto was done by Cesare Formichi, who sang the part with superb voice, but evidently believed in direct action rather than subtlety as the key

Harry Partman, a young violinist from the University of Cincinnati at Kimball hall last night. Were it not that there are scores of other violinists of high ability on the concert stage, it would be a great temptation to call him a wonder. In some respects he is.

There were other competitors at Orchestra hall last night, the prize in each instance being a public appearance with the First Chamber Orchestra in its series of popular concerts. The contest was held under the auspices of the Society of American Musicians, a branch of the American orchestral association and of Frederic Stock, and included classes in solo, violin, piano and voice.

The winners were Richard Beldie playing Beethoven's Symphonic Variations for cello; Robert C. Thompson for the violin; John J. Collins; Kathryn Wilwer, soprano, with "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," from "La Furaia del Senno"; and Miss First Chamber Orchestra's Concerto for piano in C minor.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted by the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. Dewey S. Dill, 4166 Ellis avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.
For whom do men dress?
Where Asked.
Clark at Randolph street.
The Answers.
Paul Dillon, 5344 S. La Salle street.
Clark—Why for comfort and looks. A man likes to be comfortable and he likes to be neatly dressed, for himself and others. He likes to dress for the people with whom he comes in contact. Dress helps to maintain self-respect, and for others.

Jasper Pellett, 3511 South Sangamon street, Chicago, machine gunner, Shhhhhhh—women. I understand the question men to dress in style. It is not to attract the attention of women, but to command the respect of all women: women to whom we are indebted for sympathy, tenderness, and many of the other things of life.

H. T. Omsaler, 39 East Austin avenue, expressing—Some dresses for their wives, some dresses for other men's wives, some dresses for their best girl, some dresses to keep warm in the winter, some dresses to make darned fools of themselves. There are five new answers. The rest of us dress for common sense.

Monday is said to be the change-of-bit night in Mr. Hopper's management in the Bronx. Northside, the Milwaukee role will be continued into Sunday, with "Robin Hood" as the second item from the repertory. "He will be next to the top of the show," Northside's rôle originated thirty-five years ago by the late Henry Kay Barnabee, the son of the owners of The Bostonian and the first of the Northside's rebellion against and a breaking-away from the Boston Ideal, of which he was a member. "He was," said William McDonald, and Tom Karl, his two important members, "has frequently been told that the three string managers refused to buy 'Robin Hood' outright for a sum smaller than the weekly fee of $100,000, and the weekly royalties to Harry B. Smith and the late Reginald De Koven, who wrote the music, and when the show was given in 1912 in revival in the Columbia with Miss Beatie Abbott as Maid Marian.

February 8 is now bulletined as the date of "Rose-Marie" in the Woods. . . . And Richard Gallagher (the one who was in "The Great Gatsby") is now the comedian of the second cast, having the rôle performed in New York by William Kent. Gallagher is who is just out from the depths of Miss Ruth Chatterton's venture as a song-and-dance woman in "The Magnolia Lady," was the original player in that part in which Mrs. Winnie Harris was just out from the depths. Like most of his associates in that first costly line-up, he was a mistake.

of the church, became known when the Rev. J. J. McEwen, pastor of the First Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue, announced the intention of raising the fabric of the church by a Theological seminary at Evanston in appreciation of Bishop Anderson's services to the diocese. Others of the same faith, however, were opposed toward the seminary fund and have agreed to cooperate with their churches in raising $25,000 for the fund in a campaign between Feb. 8 and 22.

"Bishop Anderson has positively declined to allow any sum of money to be raised for him personally as an honorarium," said the Rev. J. J. Thomas. "What Bishop Anderson wants most of all is an increase in the number of clergy in the Episcopal church, and he is anxious that the best of all be accomplished by the establishment of the new Western Theological seminary."

It is said that he did not want even a seminary fund raised in his name.

Cover Stone Saturday

The corner stone of the United Masonic temple, now being constructed on Randolph between State and Dearborn streets, will be laid at 2 o'clock next Saturday afternoon.

The stone will be laid by G. M. Rich of Harrisburg, grand master of the grand lodge of Illinois. U. S. Senator-elect Charles S. Deneen will deliver the address. Knights Templar will escort David D. King, deputy grand master; Louis L. Emmerson, senior grand warden; Emmett Howard, junior grand warden, and other officers of the grand lodge to the scene.

Coincidental with the laying of the cornerstone, a drive will be launched to sell $1,700,000 of debentures of the building, to cover the remainder of the necessary funds. William Hale Thompson will be general chairman of the campaign. Construction of the building, which will cost $2,000,000, is assured by surety bonds, says the building committee. But it plans to carry the project through without any debt except the bonds and debentures.

Question of How Far a Girl May Wisely Take the Initiative

BY DORIS BLAKE

"How far can I go in making advances in order to interest a man whom I like and want to like me?" "What steps can I take to let a boy know that I like him?" "How much can I show my preference for him and my desire to be with him?"

I could go on, quoting indefinitely the variety of questions girls ask every day, pertaining all of them, to this matter of how far a girl may wisely take the initiative in making advances which will show a boy she likes him—a pleasant matter fraught with danger at every step and yet, at the same time, one which every girl has a perfect right to consider and ponder.

It is only natural if a girl has met a man who interests her, a man she knows she likes instinctively, and whose companionship she would enjoy, that she will try to attract him in turn, assuming under the circumstances his liking for her has not been aroused.

The American girl of today acts differently, on the whole, from the old-fashioned girl of a couple of decades ago who was brought up to believe that if by word or look she encouraged a man, she would be the same sign, frighten him away. She has gone beyond the stage of thinking that she must remain passive and utterly aloof until some man in court of honor on foot stood before her and carried her away.

The American principle of youth deciding for itself whom it shall marry, rather than of the parents deciding, has been a strong force in this change of attitude, together with the growing economic independence of girls.

Still the fact remains that in the average male the idea of regarding himself in the role of aggressor is strongly imbedded. And the girl who deliberately sets about letting a man know that she likes him in order that she may in turn attract him has to use subtle methods indeed. The moment her plan becomes obvious and her preference too pronounced before his preference has been similarly displayed, she has run a big risk of defeating her own ends.

Any man is flattered by thinking he is liked, provided he likes the girl. Therefore, it goes without saying that it is wiser for the girl to attract him before she shows her own feelings strongly.

Any legitimate and sensible way that she can make this preference for him a live thing is certainly permissible. There are many ways of doing it. A flash of the eyes in his direction, or in some other man's direction when he is around, an invitation to the house when some, or all party is being staged, a maneuvering even to meet him in case she has not been formerly introduced, or a manufactured excuse to cross his path if she knows him but slightly and has few opportunities of meeting him in the daily program of her duties or pleasures—all these, providing they are for possibilities of future friendship.

The hardest situation for a girl to manage is that one of restraining a man she has once known but who, for some reason or other, ceased to be interested in her. It is infinitely easier, as a rule, to kindle new fires than to start old ones on the banked ashes of indifference. Here a girl has to guard against the reasonable suspicion on the man's part that she is anxious to start things again.

Any girl who sincerely wants to know a man and to interest him can afford to put her head to the problem and work it hard. But she must also use her wits that her methods are not suspected. Attract him first before he guesses you are attracted. It will be easier sailing after that.

HAROLD TEEN—HE HAS TAKING WAYS

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

How He Won't Speak

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 17½ and considered good looking, and have been going out with a fellow of 21 for eight months. One of his friends told me that he passed a bad remark about me. I wrote him a letter and asked if it was true. He denied it. I know I hurt him very much by that letter. He came around with his friends, but didn't speak to me. I am deeply in love with him and would like to continue his friendship. Shall I write to him and apologize?"

BOSNA.

Of course you were rather tactless in the way you worded your letter, making him feel you believed what she does not, son. The thing for you to do is to be so thoughtful and attentive that she will come to care more for you than for any of the others.

from you would not be necessary. From the way things turned out I am inclined to feel you lacked diplomacy in handling the situation.

Be More Attentive

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a young man of 21 and have met a girl of 19, whom I care for. Since we met I have treated her with respect and have taken her out for pleasures. But I do know that she goes out with other fellows. I say nothing to her about it. I can't tell whether or not she cares for me.

Later, I think she must care for you or she would not accept your attentions. The fact that she goes out with other boys is no sign that she does not, son. The thing for you to do is to be so thoughtful and attentive that she will come to care more for you than for any of the others.

18th-Century French Drawing Room Scene for Art Exhibition

A gem of an idea in the hands of Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, a suggestion to the decorative art department of the Art Institute, commensurate with a firm of French and American art importers, and let a French drawing room of the eighteenth century, containing a collection of rare paintings, paintings, furniture, and objects d'art, springs into being in Chicago. Nearly 500 invitations have been directed to society folk for the opening of the exhibit to take place from 2 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Art Institute. A committee, including Mrs. Joseph C. Coleman, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Crane, Chubb, and Mrs. McCormick, is actively sponsoring the affair.

The exhibit is to be served under the auspices of the Antislavery society, a formerly belonging to La Rochefoucauld and a painting by Drouais, which comes from Baroness Mathilde de Rothschild, are among the articles of the Antislavery society, French estates which are to be on view.

The Dearborn Seminary Alumnae association, which has on its roster the names of the daughters of many of Chicago's oldest families, will hold its forty-second annual luncheon and meeting on Saturday at the Fortnightly. Mrs. Joseph B. Woodruff of the Drake is in charge of arrangements. A touch of Antislavery will be prevalent at this year's gathering because of the recent death of Mrs. J. Whitney Farlin, who was the last living member of the seminary's first class in 1855.

Dr. Paul Dukes, the young British journalist-lecturer whose career reads like a novel of adventure, will be welcomed this week by Chicago society, with whom he has found such favor on previous visits. He will speak on "Secret Service in Red Russia" for the benefit of the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the Blackstone, an hour chosen to accommodate the business men. Mrs. William S. Monroe, honorary president of the organization, is issuing invitations and Mrs. George Hallock Taylor is in charge of the ticket sales. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe are to give a dinner after the lecture for Dr. Paul and there are to be other affairs given for him during his stay. He experienced much that was frightful and much that was interesting during his service in the war and was subsequently knighted for his accomplishments.

Mrs. Walter Beem of 1928 Lake Shore drive has departed for a stay in New York, leaving her home to Countess de Jumilhac, who are being extensively entertained during their week's sojourn in Chicago. They plan to depart at the end of the week for the west in their motor, which brought them here at record-breaking speed from Detroit, in one day.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter of 1445 Astor street are spending a few days at Coronado Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. and a party of friends have been recent Coronado visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Clement of 1044 Delaware place and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds of 1444 Lake Shore drive are to depart on the 21st for the "Cibola." Mr. and Mrs. Clement, who are to be accompanied by the latter's niece, Mrs. Otto Kraus of New York City, will remain in the west for a month or two weeks and the Reynolds are to stay until spring.

Miss Peggy Hamilton of the Ambassador hotel has returned from Detroit, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Berrien C. Eaton of that city. Miss Hamilton accompanied the Junior League when they went to Detroit last week to present "The Wizard of Oz."

Nurse Association Holds Annual Meeting Tomorrow
The annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse association will be held on the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the association, tomorrow, at the Blackstone. Reports of the work of the organization during the year will be read at this meeting. Last year the staff of 104 visiting nurses made 246,616 visits to 29,229 patients, at an expense of nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

Spanish Evening at Gordon.
Mrs. Marie Jonnesco and Andre de Frang, French violinist, will give a Spanish evening at the Gordon club this evening. A large number of the Marshall Foch addressed to the American soldiers will be read.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Cornmeal Ring Muffins.

Batters baked in rings on a griddle with an exceedingly attractive variety of bread. Even raised batters may be baked that way, the product being of the nature of an English muffin. A cornmeal muffin baked in a ring will be light and brown on each side, will have something of the flavor of a corn cake. Use the following formula, sometimes the oven may be hot and then for the ring, and see the difference.

One cup cornmeal, one-half cup white flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon salt, sugar to taste or none, but some persons like a good deal, one and a half cups of sweet milk, two eggs separated, two tablespoons of melted butter. Beat the whites of the eggs, then beat the milk with them. Pour this mixture into the sifted dry ingredients and mix. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites and add the melted butter.

To bake this batter for ring muffins, heat a griddle slowly, have it ready, but not too hot, so as to burn anything adhering to it for ten minutes of time. Butter the inside of the rings, put them on the greased griddle, about two-thirds full, bake ten minutes on one side, then turn with a spatula or cake turner, ring and all, and bake ten minutes on the other side. Remember that the sides should be a handsome and even brown. A good rule for a batter like this is that it should be wet enough to run, run smoothly in the griddle to fill the ring, if the ring is too full the muffin will spread when turned. It is this makes them spread, rather than to rise.

Society Is Tardy Taking Its Place in Opera Box Circle

Society was so late at the opera last night that it was not until the second act of "Rigoletto" was well under way that the horseshoes presented its customary Tuesday brilliance. Two of the most admired occupants of the boxes were Miss Sarah Otis and Miss Mary-Anna Beckwith, both debutantes of the season and among the prettiest young girls in society. Miss Otis was with Miss Irene Wilson, whose other guests were Mrs. Ralph C. Otis, Mrs. Lawrence O. Wilson, Mrs. Carroll B. Young, and Mrs. Wilson Low of California.

Miss Beckwith and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Beckwith, Mrs. John E. Jenkins, and Mrs. Oliver Bennett Grover, were with Mrs. Timothy B. Blackstone.

Occupying Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's box were Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Smith and Mrs. John R. Gott. Mrs. Levi Madison Vilas, Mrs. George Lowe, Miss Lucian, Miss Violette, John Campbell, and Phoebe Covarr were with Mrs. Frank O. Lowden box, which adjoins Mrs. McCormick's.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dunham, Mrs. Frank Murphy, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Bowes were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Dixon.

Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt had with her Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daniel Frey, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Gordon, and Miss Charlotte Smith of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Rollins were with Mr. and Mrs. William D. McVaine. Mrs. Harold N. Strods had with her Mrs. Bertha Ochsner, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Charles J. Moore, Lazare Saminsky, and Thomas E. Tallmadge.

Infant Welfare Benefit.

The Oak Park center of the Infant Welfare society will benefit from the ticket sale for the performance at the Cohan's Grand theater this evening. Mrs. Tolfer McArthur and Miss Constance Long are in charge of a group of young women who will usher. Mrs. Hush B. Adams is chairman of the affair.

Wed 63 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Russell, 2339 Walnut street, both of whom have lived in Chicago all their lives, will celebrate tomorrow the sixty-third anniversary of their wedding.

BRIDE

Mrs. Marshall Edward Keig.

One of the important winter weddings was that on last Saturday of Miss Gertrude Woodruff, daughter of Mrs. Frederick W. Woodruff of Joliet, Ill., to Marshall Edward Keig of Chicago, which took place in Joliet.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—The President and Mrs. Coolidge have as their guests at the White House the President's guests, Mrs. Moore, and her daughter, Miss Gertrude Moore, of Alstead, N. H., who was with Mrs. Coolidge at the concert of the New York Symphony orchestra this afternoon.

Mrs. Coolidge attended the luncheon of the Ladies of the Senate today, at which she was one of the hostesses. There will be no cabinet dinners given this season for the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who are according no invitations, although they are giving the customary state functions at the White House.

Senator and Mrs. Tasker L. Odell were the guests at dinner this evening of Capt. and Mrs. Percy Foote, who had a company of twelve preceding the dance in the officers' club at the navy yard.

Miss Lydia Hibbard and John E. Holland to Be Married Today

The wedding of Miss Lydia Hibbard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard of 1944 Astor street, to John E. Holland Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Holland of 1224 Astor street, will claim society's interest this afternoon. The service will be read by Father Mulvey at 4:30 o'clock at the Hibbard residence before a group of relatives and intimate friends, and will be followed by a large reception at 5 o'clock.

The wedding attendants will include Mrs. Clarence Mitchell (Marjorie King) matron of honor; Miss Carroll Elting, maid of honor; Miss Mary Meeker, Miss Louise Mitchell, Miss Nancy Waterbury of New York City, and Miss Mary Stewart Cottrell of Western, R. I., as bridesmaids; William Gold Hibbard, best man; Clarence B. Mitchell, Albert P. Madlener, Paul McBride, James Kendrick, and John Coggeshall of New York, and Walter Donahoe of Seattle as ushers. The small daughters of Mrs. Kenneth Sawyer Gooden, Marjorie, and Kay, will be flower girls.

Mr. Holland and his bride will reside with his parents after the wedding trip, for the remainder of the winter, and will occupy a house in Lake Forest for the summer.

Miss Marjorie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell Thompson of 4522 Greenwood avenue, will be married this evening at 8:30 o'clock to Paul Hughes Smith at the South Shore Country club. Miss Evelyn Thomas, Miss Suzanne McGonigle, Miss Ruth Marshall, and Mrs. Evan Connell of Kansas City will be Miss Thompson's bridesmaids.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Sings of Sickness.
I am coming to you again for help. It seems that I must write you, as we always hear good news whenever we do. Father is still sick, and has been for over a year, and mother has been taking in washings a few days each week, but we have all had the flu and it has been all we could do to keep the rest of the family from getting it. We have got some one to help us, and get clothes for my brothers and sisters. George is 14, Genevieve 10, William 8, and I am 12.

Tirade Stirs In Parliament

In view of recent dispatching that Premier Mussolini Fascisti had set up an almost dictatorship in Italy, the Associated Press dispatch, the Italian censor, sheds an light on the situation. It is almost entirely to the heated a communist member of parliament, who spoke in the presence of Sig. Mussolini Fascist majority in the deputies against the proposed reform bill. The fact that the censor may suggest that Mussolini relaxed his opposition to reports.

ROME, Jan. 14.—[By the Press.]—The sitting of the deputies today was attended by a great crowd of spectators eager to watch the proceedings because of the return to the chamber of a small group of communists which had withdrawn from the Argentine opposition. One of the communists, Dapone Grison, delivered a fiery attack against the fascist, but he was interrupted, stung and greeted with hisses.

The president of the club Casertano, delivered an keynote of which was condensed the parliamentary would be free, but that ill not degenerate into license.

"Majorities," he said, "must pose themselves because of bers, and minorities must violence because of lack of otherwise the tyranny of would be substituted by of the few, which was even

At the conclusion of the speech the communist deputy from the extreme left gazed upon them with cu-direction. Premier Mussolini in the center of the government remained indifferent.

Deputy Grieco discussed proposed electoral measures violently revolutionary and declared that plural voting was iniquitous, impudent attempt at universal suffrage and we are glad to have general cause they offer us the propagation of our ideas masses."

He reviewed the condition of the proletariat throughout the world and urged the German proletariat to support the Dawes plan to pieces.

President Casertano interrupted saying: "You must speak of electoral law, leaving a country and foreign politics to the experts."

Can Say What He Likes

Griseo replied: "I am
